INTERIOR DESIGN

Interior design is an art and science that involves creating functional and aesthetically pleasing spaces within buildings. It is the process of planning, designing, and coordinating various elements to transform the interior environment into a harmonious and visually appealing setting. Here's a description of interior design:

Interior design is much more than just selecting colors and arranging furniture. It encompasses a wide range of aspects, including space planning, layout, lighting, materials, textures, patterns, and decorative elements. A skilled interior designer considers not only the visual aspects of a space but also its functionality, safety, and comfort..
